FATAL ACCIDENT OCCURED NEAR JAMESTOWN SATURDAY

Joe Crosson Fell Forty-Five Feet From Tank, Landing on His Head---Body will Likely be Sent to Home at Saginaw, Mich., Tonight.

Joe Crosson, a young white man whose hom is in Saginaw, Mich., fell 45 feet Saturday afternoon and was fatally hurt, his death following after several hours of intense suffering. Crosson was rushed as speedily as possible to St. Leo's Hospital after the frightful accident, which occurred at Jamestown on the Armstrong place. where the man was working, but medical skill was of no avail.

Mr. Crosson was a mechanic employed by the Chicago Bridge and Iron Company and was engaged in erecting a tower for a water-tank on the Armstrong place at Jamestown. Shortly after three o'clock the young man slipped and fell, landing on his head and receiving internal injuries. He was brought at once to this city and the hospital by automobile but the race for life was useless, the man succumbing to the terrible injuries on his head at 10:15 o'clock Saturday night. A telegram was received early in the afternoon from the father of the deceased man. The message ordered that the body of the son should not be shipped to his home in Saginaw, but should be interred here. Services over the body will be held at 11 o'clock, conducted by Father Vincent. The interment will be made in Green Hill cemetery.

STILL CAPTURED IN WAKE COUNTY.

Raleigh, Aug. 7.—Deputy Collector Merritt and Deputy Marshal Jordan succeeded in destroying an illicit still near Youngsville, Franklin county, Saturday, and in capturing the operators, Wade Barnette and Sid Driver, both of whom they brought to Raleigh. Barnette and Driver were committed to jail to await a preliminary hearing before United States Commissioner John Nichols.

The still was a small one, compared with some that have been capture by the revenue officers having their headquarters here. The prisoners offered no resistance when the officers slipped up on them. One ran a little way, but was caught without difficulty. In fact, they were not looking for the officers and were taken completely by surprise. Driver has been in the same kind of trouble before, it is stated.

COTTON CROP OUTLOOK NOT SO FAVORABLE

Boll Worms, Caterpillars, and Other Insects Affect Outlook --Blight Feared.

Memphis, Tenn., Aug. 7.—The Commercial Appeal of today says:

Crop reports are less uniformly favorable than heretofore. Excessive rain has fallen in the Mississippi Valley States and in Oklahoma, while North and South Carolina have suffered from drought and shedding. Boll worms, army worms and cater-pillars have appeared in many counties in Texas, Mississippi and Alabama and the excess of moisture for the season makes some of the planters fear rust and blight and an excess of plant growth. These conditions make the situation rather less satisfactory, but the outlook is still excellent, as the damage from these troubles has not been heavy.

The plant has grown large and seems very healthy in a ll states save the drought-y districts of the two Carolinas and a little portion of northern Texas. It has taken fruit well and if the present crop set on the stalk is matured the yield will be a large one.

Picking has been delayed by the abundant moisture supply and the crop will not move as early as expected in the central and eastern states for this reason.

Boll weevil damage has been very slight up to the present and the crop in the infested districts promises to turn out well.

A gradual return to dry, warm weather is desirable.

MEMBERS OF TEXT BOOK COMMISSION NOT DISTURBED

Dispite Reports of Sensations That will Develop They are Taking Matters Easy—But Little Credence Given Rumors—Executive Sessions Being Held.

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, Aug. 7.—Executive sessions of the state textbook commission and the sub-commission began today and are to continue right along each day this week until the adoption of textbooks for use the ensuing five years in the public schools is all completed which is expected to be well into the latter part of the week.

The members of the commission present the most serene appearance in spite of the rumors that are flying about as to impending investigations and other matters hinted at as about to precipitate sensations. The fact is there are lots of people who do not credit these reports and insist that this book adoption is not really being characterized by anything like the clash and splutter and accusations that usually attend these state adoptions of textbooks in other parts of the country.

The members of the state commission have not yet had opportunity to examine and discuss the reports of the sub-commissioners on their personal examinations of the books offered for adoption and this is to be done in joint session and the whole scope of the textbook question threshed out in these joint conferences before the actual voting on adoption is taken up. Members of the commission explain that this is the reason that several days this week will be required to complete the adoption.

M'CABE

Again Witness Before Committee Investigating the Wiley Case

Washington, Aug. 7.—Solicitor McCabe, of the Department of Agriculture, was again a witness before the House committee on expenditures in the department of agriculture, today. Upon rigid cross-examination by Attorney Davis McCabe admitted that he had written the law for the department which deprived Wiley of the authority to recommend the prosecution of violaators of the pure food law, thus curtailing Wiley's power as chief chemist of the department.

GLAD TO ROB A RAILROAD

Thus Read the Note Left by Thieves, Who Looted Phillips Manor Station.

Tarrytown, N. Y., Aug. 7.—Leaving a note saying it gave them great pleasure to rob a railroad, river pirates broke into Phillips Manor Station, a mile north of here, and stole every ticket. Charles Lowe, the agent, found everything in disorder and the box containing the tickets missing. On the desk lay a note which read:

It gives us pleasure to do a railroad, and we're now going joy riding.

The thieves chopped the ticket box from the wall and took it away with the agent's punch. The police believe the robbers are the same gang that broke into the Ardsley station a week ago, blew open the safe and stole all its contents. The agents surprised them at work, but they made their escape in a small black boat.

Panoramic View of Havana Harbor Showing Wreck of Battleship Maine and Coffer-dam Which Incloses It.

This is the latest picture of the present position of the wreck of the battleship Maine and the work being done to disclose the hull. The heaps of white matter within the cofferdam are piles of crushed rock which were deposited to prevent the caissons from giving way. There are still many feet of mud to be removed before that part of the wreck can be reached which will disclose the true nature of the explosion which caused the disaster.

C. C. TAYLOR IS PRESIDENT OF A WINSTON COMPANY

Directors of Business Men's Casualty Company Elected Him Saturday.

Winston-Salem, Aug. 7.—With a new organization perfected Saturday the Business Men's Casualty Company of this city is now in the most substantial condition it has been in since it was created a year ago. At a meeting of the board of directors held yesterday afternoon in the offices of the company in the Masonic Temple, Mr. C. C. Taylor of Greensboro, manager of agents for the Security Life and Annuity Company, was elected president. Mr. Taylor was elected to this position to succeed the late Capt. R. P. Henry, who had been president of the Business Men's Casualty Company from the time of its organization until his death a few weeks ago.

Mr. Taylor is acknowledged to be one of the foremost insurance men in North Carolina and the directors of the local company consider themselves fortunate in securing him to pilot the enterprise.

Mr. Ralph B. Coit was elected actuary of the company. Formerly he was actuary for a number of years for the state insurance department, and at present he is actuary of the Security Life and Annuity Company of Greensboro. Mr. Coit has had large experience and the directors feel that no more efficient man could be secured for this position.

Mr. W. M. Hanes of this city was elected vice-president and a member of the board of directors, also Mr. A. H. Eller was elected a member of the board of directors. The board of directors now stand as follows:

Messrs. C. C. Taylor, W. M. Hanes, John L. Wimbish, J. L. Rodwell, W. E. Franklin, A. H. Eller, Ralph B. Coit, and Dr. J. K. Pepper.

The company is negotiating with one of the most experienced casualty men in the state to take the position as secretary. The agency force will continue under the management of Mr. B. S. Hecker.

It is the purpose of the company to extend its business into every section of North Carolina at the earliest possible time and later throughout the Southern States.

HUNDRED TRAINS COME AND GO IN RALEIGH EACH DAY

Forty-Eight are Passenger and Fifty-Two are Freight Trains.

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, Aug. 7.—It is a most creditable fact that Raleigh now has one hundred regular trains running in and out of the city on the several roads each twenty-four hours. Of these forty-eight are passenger trains and fifty two are freight trains. The Southern has eight passenger and eight freight trains in and out of the city; the Seaboard Air Line has ten freight and ten passenger trains each way; the Norfolk & Southern has six freight and six passenger trains each way and the Raleigh & Southport six passenger trains and eight freight trains.

LECONTE

Took Hold of Reins of Haitien Government This Morning.

Port Au Prince, Aug. 7.—General Leconte installed himself in the presidential palace today, while his ministry was busily engaged in taking over the state business abandoned by President Simon. There is no disorder here, the foreign marines having overawed the turbulent revolutionary soldiers.

The first division of the revolutionary army entered the city yesterday and immediately proclaimed General Cincinnatua Leconte as chief executive. H. W. Furniss, the American minister, went outside the city yesterday morning and warned the victorious army that if public order was disturbed he would cause American marines to be landed to keep the peace. The troops advanced in good order and occupied all the stations in the city, dislodging therefrom supporters of Gen. Antenor Firmin, who marched out without any show of resistance.

NEW SCHOOL HOUSE WILL BE ERECTED AT WINDING HILL

Stokesdale Asks Educational Board for Larger School Building.

At the meeting of the county board of education held Saturday in Superior court room the Windling Hill committee reported that they wanted to erect a two-room school house to replace the present building, which is insufficient in capacity to accommodate the increasing attendance. The board aprpoved the report and authorized the improvement of the school facilities by the new building. An appropriation of $400 was voted to assist in defraying the expenses necessary for the new school house.

A delegation from Stokesdale also came before the board stating that they wished to enlarge the building at that place. The board heard the delegation and instructed the committee to appear before them again next Saturday and submit plans and subscriptions for the improvements. If approved by the board an appropriation will be given. The remainder of the time was devoted to routine business matters of an uninteresting nature.

NORTH JEFFERSON TO VOTE AGAIN ON SCHOOL BOND ISSUE

The Board of County Commissioners today granted the petition ow two-thirds of the qualified voters of North Jefferson special-tax school district, and ordered an election to be held Tuesday, September 12, at Boone's store, McLeansville, to determine whether or not the special tax now levied in the district should be revoked or continued.

It will be recalled that early in the spring the petition was presented the County Board of Education, but for some reason was held up until this time.

Both those favoring and those opposing the levy of the local tax for schools will do much work during the next five weeks and it is expected that the election will be close. The fact that two-thirds of the voters signed the petition indicates that sentiment is against the local tax.

FARMERS WILL CONSIDER POOLING THEIR TOBACCO

North Carolina and Virginia Unions Meet Here for That Purpose Aug. 25-26---Nearly Two Thousand will be in Attendance on the Sessions.

On August 25-26 will be held in this city an Inter-state Convention of the Farmers' Co-operative and Educational Unions of North Carolina and Virginia, the object being to urge the farmers to pool their tobacco. It is expected that between 1,500 and 2,000 farmers will be in attendance.

The meeting promises to be one of the most important ever held by the farmers in this State. Owing to the poor crop of tobacco this year the farmers believe that they can get good prices for what tobacco they raise, if they will only hold it for these prices, forcing the tobacco trust to come to terms, as it were. It is understood that the farmers are in hearty sympathy with the proposed move and will be present to manifest their desire to stand by each other.

Charles S. Barrett, president of the National Farmers' Union, will be present to urge the adoption of the proposition. Hon. Joel B. Fort, of Adams, Tenn., will also make addresses before the convention.

Greensboro was selected as the place of meeting as a result of the efforts of the Chamber of Commerce. Last week Secretary McLean received a letter from T. B. Hill, who was appointed chairman of the committee on arrangements at the annual meeting recently held in Salisbury, stating that his committee would be glad to consider Greensboro if satisfactory arrangements could be made. Mr. McLean at once got busy and secured hotel rates and, in behalf of the city, tendered the use of the city hall auditorium. Mr. McLean also called attention to the many advantages Greensboro offered in the way of hotel accommodations, railroad facilities and convenient schedules. This morning he received a letter from Mr. Hill to the effect that Greensboro had been selected and that the farmers of the two states would be here in full force on the above mentioned dates.

TOGO INSPECTED NAVAL ACADEMY AT ANNAPOLIS, MD.

Left Washington This Morning and will Return Tonight—Took Cruise to Mt. Vernon Yesterday and Placed Wreath on Tomb of Washington.

Washington, Aug. 7.—Admiral Togo, accompanied by Assistant Secretary of State Hale, Capt. T. M. Potts and his personal suite, left here this morning for Annapolis, where the Japanese hero will visit the naval academy. The party will return to Washington tonight.

Washington, Aug. 7.—Reverently and with a brief invocation in Japanese, Admiral Count Togo placed a wreath of roses on the tomb of Washington at Mount Vernon yesterday. A group of a dozen, among whom were the Japanese ambassador, Acting Secretary of the Navy Winthrop, five other rear admirals of the United States navy and Chandler Hale, third-assistant Secretary of State, watched the diminutive Oriental enter the mausoleum and stand silently at salute. He spoke softly but audibly for a moment and then put down the wreath.

After the ceremony at the tomb, the party strolled through the picturesque Washington estate to the mansion in which the nation's first President lived and died. The admiral was led through the numerous small rooms and up the staircases to the bed where Washington died. He bowed and saluted. He paused before Washington's sword and carefully read the inscription. One of the party pointed out the wine and liquor case which once figured in the hospitality of Mount Vernon.

"Pretty generous bottles," commented a navy officer, and the little Japanese smiled quickly in appreciation. On the Mount Vernon autograph book the admiral wrote with a firm hand in English: "Admiral Count Togo, August 6th, 1911." The Japanese ambassador also signed his name.

Hand Beaten and Shot by Employers in Wake Yesterday.

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, Aug. 7.—Because John Hatcher, farm hand, kept their horse and buggy out all night in coming to Raleigh Saturday J. H. Council and his son, Swaney Council, farmers near Raleigh, met him in the road Sunday morning and, according to Hatcher's statement to the police, the father covered him with a gun and the son knocked him from the buggy and beat him, finally taking the gun from the senior Council and striking him over the head twice. Then when he broke away and ran the young man fired, the shot taking effect in his back. He was bleeding profusely when he reached Raleigh and appealed to the police for help. He was employed by the Councils and had been with them for several weeks.

REUNION OF FORMER JEFFERSON ACADEMY STUDENTS SATURDAY

Visitors Enjoyed Sports, Supper and Social Hour That Followed.

McLeansville, Aug. 7.—There was quite a large gathering of people of the community, supplemented by a number from a distance, at the picnic and reunion of former students of Jefferson Academy Saturday evening. The afternoon and evening was spent most pleasantly in a social way, and the supper that was served at 7 o'clock on the campus was everything that could be desired in the way of good things to eat.

In the afternoon Sedalia and Shady Grove ball teams played and the latter team won by a score of 6 to 1. Following this was an amateur game for two or three innings but both sides are still disputing over what the score was, and there is no one who is certain of the result.

Following the supper the people assembled in the academy and heard Edgar T. Hines, the new principal of the school, telling of his plans and purposes for the coming year, after which there were brief but happy talks by Dr. W. C. Wicker, of Elon College; B. B. Slaughter, of Trinity College; Rev. Clarence Woods of Lexington; Prof. Charles D. Cobb, of McLeansville, and Charles A. Hines, of Greensboro.

Delightful music was furnished by Miss Lindsey, Miss Ketchie and Mr. Huff, and the old glee-club sang a number of the old familiar college and popular songs. Altogether the evening was one of rare enjoyment.

The old students pledged their hearty support to Mr. Hines in his efforts to build up the school. The outlook for Jefferson the coming year is promising. Already a number of students have promised to enroll and the institution will reopen with a good attendance.

Mexico is evidently in a worse state without Diaz than when he was in control, from the standpoint of law enforcement and general conditions. Diaz probably exploited the country for his own profit to some extent and he allowed great corporations to do so, but he forced the people to obey the laws and kept the country in a peaceful state the greater part of the time until the insurrection arose which ended in his being driven from the country. Now Mexico is in a turmoil and rebellion is rampant in a large section of the country. There will be no peace in Mexico until a man with the strong will and strong hand of Diaz arises to place himself at the head of the government.

Every really live city or town desires to lead in its class, just as the individual who is composed of the right sort of stuff desires to lead in any particular undertaking or in any line of business. The test of the metal of a municipality can be made right at this point. The town or city that is determined to go ahead, to develop, to grow, to do things worth while; to add to its business, its wealth, its population, its attractiveness and to improve in every particular, will succeed if enough energy and hard sense and money are put behind the effort. Towns and cities which fail nowadays to make progress, soon fall behind and begin to lose ground. Any town or city with reasonable natural advantages will flourish if the right steps are taken to promote its growth—to "boost" it, if you please. The get-together spirit among the people of a town counts for more than any other factor in growth. When the people of any town or city get together and go to work, they will be able to accomplish whatever they plan to do.

HERE IS TOGO.

Snapshot of Japan's Admiral, Showing Some of His Most Striking Characteristics.

His face is mahogany brown, all broken into little wrinkles about the eyes and with lines of force from nose to mouth. His eyes are flush with the cheeks after the Oriental pattern and marked up-turning. A scraggly, grizzled beard that appears to be striving under limitations to be of the William J. Gaynor cut covers all his chin and loops up about his ears. His hair is gray, sparse and bristling.

When he talks, Admiral Togo's voice is low and devoid of accent or animation. His eyes help his speech, particularly when he is talking with one of his countrymen; they are constantly lighting up and fading to a blank, unseeing expression. A Japanese who talked with him on the Senaca coming up the bay early yesterday morning said of his speech:

"He talks the Kagoshima accent; not a bit the polished Tokio dialect. He is still what you would call a countryman."

Curiously enough, Admiral Togo carries an enigma in his name and the relic of some forgotten legend. As this same obliging Japanese told the reporters, "Togo" means "eastern village," and the name was given to the Admiral's ancestors hundreds of years ago, when at the close of a bitter feud with another clan the prince over all awarded the Togos an "eastern village" wherein to reside.

"Heihachiro literally translated means 'Eight peace men,'" said the Japanese informant. "Now, I don't know how that name ever came to be made; it must have been away back in legendary times. Many men in Japan bear it and they do not know its significance. It's odd that Togo should be an "Eight peace' man, isn't it?"

Police Inspector McClusky paid the Admiral, for the city, a wonderful compliment. From Sixth avenue to Broadway on Forty-second street all traffic, vehicle and pedestrian, on the south side of the street had been stopped for half an hour when the Japanese warrior emerged into view of several thousand persons. The little Admiral was cheered until his chauffeur whisked him away, preceded by a big squad of mounted police carrying their colors.

As they went through Forty-second street, Sixth avenue, Fifth avenue and then Broadway the Japanese visitors were welcomed with shouts. Two or three concerns which purvey Nippon's manufactures greeted Togo from store fronts hidden beneath bunting.

It seemed that the walking population of Manhattan below Forty-second street had stayed away from business to shout a welcome to the visitor. How many times he lifted his hat the Admiral doesn't know.

Then came an army of reporters. The Admiral stood up and had their questions transmitted to him by Commander Taniguchi.

"I have long wanted to see your city," he said. "I am pleased to note that very evidently your city wants to see me."

"Have you any impression of this country on so short a view?" he was asked.

"Many things have impressed me," he answered, "and I am sure that many more things will impress me. I already know that you have a great government."

"What is you opinion of the triple treaty of peace?"

"It is a very good thing, I belive," Togo responded, "As for me, I love peace."

Then swept in four photographers. Mr. Hale, who could still hear the flashlight explosions of Thursday night, asked that the camera men be speedy. Togo asked no quarter. A man used to commanding was commanded. He was commanded to sit, not where he wanted to sit, but where the photographers wanted him. He obeyed meekly.

Fifteen minutes passed and the end had not arrived. One camera man said that another camera bearer had taken more pictures than he had. So he insisted on keeping Admiral Togo in his seat.

The Admiral was growing weary. His head dropped. The photographer stepped forward and adjusted it, placed his hands professionally on the sea fighter's face and showed him how to pose. He also commanded the Admiral to smile. But the Admiral couldn't.

Luncheon was had then in the rooms, Togo resting while it was being prepared.—New York Paper.

SCHWAB TOLD SECRET.

How Great Steel Magnate Acted When Telling of Trust's Birth.

Charles M. Schwab yesterday proclaimed himself the father of the United States Steel Corporation. It was in his brain that the giant combine had birth, and it was the financial genius of J. Pierpont Morgan that gave it sustenance.

This was told by Mr. Schwab to the Congressional committee investigating the steel trust. He declared it was the first time he has ever told the story of the genesis of the corporation. As its first president he helped nurture it into lusty strength. That it was not a trust he protested with an earnestness bordering on eloquence. Although now at the head of the combine's most powerful rival, the Bethlehem Steel Company, he had not one word of criticism to make.

Mr. Schwab's attitude was aggressive, his manner was frank, and at times he turned upon his inquisitors and shot questions at them which they could not answer, or, at least, did not. Judge Bartlett wanted to know why, if the cost of production in the United States was no greater than in foreign countries, Germany could land its steel in Pittsburg cheaper than the domestic product, but he failed to find out.

"If Germany or some other foreign country should invade this market with cut prices would you meet the cuts?" he asked.

"Undoubtedly we all would," quickly replied Mr. Schwab.—New York American.

BUSINESS TELEGRAMS

No manufacturer of an advertised commodity—of anything sold by name—can afford to cheapen his product. If he were seeking to commit business suicide —then he might.

If the ability to spend wisely is as strong in the housewife as the ability to provide generously is in the husband, a "home of plenty" is built up.

The woman who studies the ads pays less than the woman who doesn't—about nine times out of ten.

There are some "time saving ads" in this issue, awaiting your personal attention—and wholly worthy of it!

Haven't you noticed the strange coincidence that, although accused of improvidence and extravagance, and of buying things not needed, simply because they are cheap, the "bargain hunter" seems always to have enough money with which to make all of these extravagant purchases?

"On the Front Page."

"Please put it on the front page" is the request so often made of a newspaper man by parties sending in local items. They probably think that a front page position would give it wider publicity, but in this we are inclined to believe they are mistaken. There are some people who scan every other page in the paper closely while on the front page they read only the larger and more important items, very often contenting themselves with a glance at the big headlines. Their reasons for this are that they generally expect the front page to be filled up with telegraph and foreign news, only the "big" local, as a rule, being given position on that page. They expect to find local news on the inside pages and they scan them for it because they are more interested in that class of news.

Of course, this does not apply to every subscriber. There are a great many who are just as much interested in telegraph news as in local while there are some who are more interested in the telegraph report than in the local. They read the front page first and then turn to the other pages.

It is thus strange that so many people have an idea that by putting a small local item on the front page it will be seen by more people than f it is placed on the pages filled with local. The chances are that on the frnt page it be overlooked while on the local pages it is sure to be seen.

People learn where to look for the class ofnews they are interested in and they turn to those pages for it. They like it all together and not scattered. This accounts for the action of the newspapers in classifying their pages. They realize their readers expect a local item on the local page, a sporting item on the sporting page, a real estate item on the real estate page, a society item on the society item on the society page, a mill news item on the mill news page, and so on. They expect to find small local items on the local page and not on the front page where it would be mixed up with telegraph and "big" news.—Greenville, S. C., Piedmont.

MOTHER'S REST HOUR

(By FRANCES WILEY.)

The necessity for a rest hour for a busy mother and housekeeper cannot be too strongly insisted upon. All other women are apt to take this rest except the one who needs it the most of all.

It is not necessary to take a ful hour's rest, but as much time as this should be allowed early in the afternoon after the work of dinner is over for the sumple object of resting.

The habit should be acquired of going to one's room and of shutting out the outside world as much as it is possible, together with all worldly care and worry.

Bathe the temples, loose the dress, and if possible, put on a lose wrapper and lie down. Sleep may not come at once, but the habit is soon acquired, and in a short time the tired woman who adopts this remedy will fall asleep almost as soon as she touches the pillow.

Even if her enforced nap does not last over half an hour no period of sleep in the 24 hours covering the same amount of time will be so refreshing or give so much rest to tired brain and muscle.

CHARACTER IN BACKS

(By POLLY PAGET.)

A man with a good, straight, upright back is correspondingly straightforward in his conduct. He holds his head well up, for he is not afraid to "look the whole world in the face." He is determined, energetic, and to be relied upon.

Even when such a man is sitting he keeps his back straight. There is an air of real strength about him, both physical and mental; in short, he has, in common parlance, "plenty of backbone."

The stooping, rounded back indicates a creature as weak as he looks, prone to lolling about, and too lazy, or too feeble, to take a front rank in the battle of life. The tramp is an excellent example of this class of being.

The criminal is generally round backed and stooping shoulders.

The scholarly stoop of the bookworm must not be confounded with the foregoing, about which there is sort of "sluchiness"—difficult to describe, but easy to recognize when seen—that is quite absent in the student's back.

Then there is the narrow, rounded back and high shoulders of the mean, covetous man. He is sly—very sly; he generally has his coat buttoned tight, and seems to draw himself up into as small a compass as possible. He is r ways, so to speak, hugging himself. Give him the "cold shoulder!"

Some people are almost too straight backed; that is to say, they hold their heads so high that there is a preposterous "fall" in the small of the back. Such people are puffed up with self-esteem, and stick their chests out almost to bursting point.

Odd Items of Interest

A pouch of a large pelican will hold seven to eight quarts of water.

The oldest violin in the world was found in an Egyptian tomb dating from about 3000 B. C.

Airtight compartment ships were suggested by an examination of the nautilus. The shell of this prudent animal has several compartments into which air or water may be admitted to allow the occupant to sink or float as it pleases. Each chamber is occupied in succession by the animal. As it increases in size it moves to a larger chamber.

A familiar belief is that moss grows chiefly on the north side of trees. The notion is not established by science, and an examination of many trees has shown that 10 per cent had the moss on the west side, 10 per cent on the northwest side, 10 per cent on the north side, 20 per cent no the northeast side, 35 per cent on the east side, and 15 per cent on the southeast side.

If it were not for the countless hosts of dust particles that float, separately invisible, in the atmosphere, there could be no rain drops, snow crystals or hailstones. From a perfectly dustless atmosphere the moisture would descend in ceaseless rain without drops. The dust particles serve as nuclei about which the vapor gathers. The snow crystal is the most beautiful creation of the aerial moisture, and the hailstone is the most extraordinary. The heart of every hailstone is a tiny atom of dust. Such an atom, with a little moisture condensed about it is the germ from which may grow a hailstone capable of felling a man or smashing a window.

CHANGE IN THE HOME

(By MRS. GEO. BRANDT WINTHROP.)

"A faddist?" said the woman, who was superintending spring cleaning. "Not at all. I am only an individual who likes to get the benefit of all modern ideas that are floating about in the air. What, otherwise, is the use of science, and education and intercourse with other nations?"

"Yes," she went on, "we do have a clean sweep out for summer, if you will believe it. Extravagant to have two sets of furniture? Is it? I think it is less expensive than to suffer from heat and to live in dark and dingy rooms. That will never do, for you will note that all our rooms are distempered white. Why distempered? Because it is comparatively cheap. In summer we put away most of our dark pieces of furniture and we use white enameled ones. Oh, yes, all these cupboards and bookcases, with glass tops and small round tables, and thin framed couches, cpied from the days of the brothers Adam, are brught out now. They have been stored since last summer. We feel as if we had gone into a new house, or as if we were all off on holiday. Practically we use no curtains at all.

"We delight in our home. Some of the girls study art and know all abuot Japanese ideas in pictures, and so on. They arrange the summer pictures. You will note that they are all light and airy and dainty. These Japanese prints, aren't they lovely against our white walls. They are good reproductions, but they did not cost much. We dine mostly on the veranda or on the lawn, and we have white china, with dark blue dds and ends, because summer food looks so appetizing when served on it. Our floor? Oh, we alter that altogether; also we take up our carpets and spread light matting. Yes, we change our place so that you would never recognize it. Why shouldn't we? People are frequently ordered abroad for change. We really get very few holidays, and can't afford to spend much on them, as the family is large, so we make our changes at home."

"I defy anyone to name a field of endeavor in which men do not receive more consideration than women!" exclaimed the orator at a Suffragette meeting.

"The chorus!" murmured some irresponsible person.

Wearing on the Phosphate

(By CARA REESE.)

It is too wearing on the phosphate, this thing of listening to and sharing in everybody's troubles.

It is too wearing on the phosphate this warm weather. It breaks down the brain cells, it takes the starch out of the backbone; the nerves are jarred and the heart pulseless. When you deplete phosphate you are storing up misery for your self. Yet in all the willful,reckless extravagances of the age, this senseless fashion of wearing out the phosphate in the mistaken idea of straightening out other folks' affairs and idiotic tangles and jangles is the most wasteful and reprehensible. When you have worn out the phosphate, when you have used up the priceless, you are of no further use, not even to yourself. It is something like using up the scarce ammunition in a constant peppering merely to amuse the enemy and with nothing left for the real fray.

Better be sparing. Nobody ever helped anybody by "going all to pieces," or by falling in a faint on account of overstrenuousness, or working up to a fever heat and a bursted blood vessel. There are countless small difficulties and annoyances which other folks should settle for themselves. It is not at all praiseworthy on the part of the thoughtless to bring home small irritations and unload these on the devoted ones who have their own cares to arbitrate. It is still less creditable for the stay-at-home members to save up every triviality of the day and to put in the entire evening at a general rehearsal.

Each time the head of the house or the tired business worker is compelled to look up from newspaper or book or ledger to reply to some trivial or irrelevant remark, there is an abrasion of good phosphate. Each time a weary mind must respond to the prod of silly questioning, or to marshal its energies to combat gossippy argument, there is phosphate burned up. Every time a fagged brain must rouse to activity in order to grasp uninteresting facts or petty and unnecessary details, there is phosphate used up.

Phosphate, to be sure, is put there for use and not to be stored and guarded and to lie sluggish and dormant. The phosphate is here for real use in all activities and pursuits, in helpful ministration and sympathetic uplift. It is here to meet the demands of honest labor, of righteous endeavor, the helping of the needy and the comforting of those in distress. The phosphate is here for the listening ear, the willing feet and the hand of service.

But you are not acting fair to the phosphate when you submit to the wear and tear f trifles, when you allow the thoughtless ones to unload every small grievance on your brain cells, when you let the general run of vexations and worries break you down. Remember the phosphate when you find yourself growing nervous, sleepless and run down. Do not waste energy on the insignificant affairs other people should settle fr themselves. Phosphate is priceless.

How a Juror Was Lost.

In southern Missouri years ago, when the form of questioning was slightly different from what it is now, much trouble was experienced in getting a jury in a murder trial. Finally an old fellow answered every question satisfactorily; he had no prejudices, was not opposed to capital punishment, and was generally a valuable find. Then the prosecutor said solemnly:

"Juror, look upon the prisoner; prisner, look upon the juror."

The old man adjusted his spectacles and peered at the prisoner for a full half minute. Then turning to the court, he said:

"Judge, durn if I don't believe he's guilty."

TWO GIRLS

(By AMANDA MOORE.)

Do you know that the bouyant person more often has success? The strong, bright personality, radiating cheerfulness, decision and courage is the one that brings friends and success wherever we find it.

Tenderness, grace, and sweetness need not be lacking, but the "uplift" must be there; the radiant personality must shine from the body.

I know two girls. One has a perfect body, her face and form are exquisite. The spirit seems cold and dull. This girl is not truly beautiful; she does not make friends.

The other girl has a small dark face; she hasn't a single good feature, but she is a glorious creature to know. Strength, and an irresistible love of life and humanity illuminate her; she is adored by a host of friends and has accomplished more good in her native town than a host of philanthropists. She refuses to have the "blues;" she refuses to be anything but wholesome and happy, and she has had occasion to be both ill and unhappy. I wish all girls were imbued with her spirit.

"That fellow is a positive joke."

POLITICAL POSSIBILITIES OF THE EXTRA SESSION

Study of Conditions in Congress Affords Many Avenues of Speculation—Democrats and "Insurgent" and "Regular" Republicans all Working to Secure Political Advantage.

(By VICTOR ELLIOTT.)

Washington, Aug. 7.—No legislative situation Congress has known in twenty years is as full of political possibilities as is that just now, with the wool bill through both houses, with the farmers' free list on the program, and with general tariff revision threatened at every turn of the road.

There is the making of Presidents in this fight, and as every member of the House and Senate knows that it is a political game they are playing it for all it is worth.

A veto of wool, some legislators declare, will mean the political end of the President. Others declare that if Mr. Taft has the courage to maintain his veto policy against the situation, he will gain strength from one end of the country to the other.

The Democrats are working for political advantage in every move, and the insurgents are doing the same thing. Senator La Follette wants to be President, and he is using the situation just now before Congress to promote his presidential boom.

This merely touches the surface of the situation. There are rings within rings in this tariff fight, and there are combinations and agreements which have not yet come to light. Some of them may never become public information.

The Senate Democrats are holding secret caucuses, and the House Democrats are holding secret conferenes. The Republican insurgents are holding the balance of power, and are using it for all it is worth. The Republican regulars are talking and are, just at this time, decidedly on the defensive.

This is the situation which has arisen within a week of the date originally set for the adjournment of the extra session. But this date has already been changed twice. It is now thought possible to get through before the end of August. Some Congressmen even despair of adjournment before the middle of September.

By far the most interesting phase of the situation is the effect it will have upon the next presidential campaign. This is the absorbing topic of conversation in Washington.

Will La Follette's brilliant coup in putting forward his substitute wool bill in the Senate make him the logical candidate in 1916?

Will the Democrats be able to capitalize their tariff program into a winning party platform next year?

Will the progressive Democrats combine with the progressive insurgents for absolute control of the next session?

Is Oscar Underwood destined to overshadow Champ Clark as the real leader of the Democratic party in the House?

Do the Democrats dare abandon their tariff-for-revenue policy, even to the extent of compromising with the insurgents?

These are just a few of the multitude of questions that the coalition of Democratic and insurgent Senators on wool has given rise to. And they are questions which only a vote of the people will answer definitely. For instance, it remains for a final ballot of the people to say whether or not President Taft should or should not veto tariff revision bills in advance of the report of the Tariff Board.

The Democrats and insurgents will tell the country that the President in his heart is against tariff revision as he has been all along. They will say that he simply used the Tariff Board as a pretext, and that he will never agree to any revision of wool that gives the people cheaper clothes. And they will point to the veto to bear them out.

On the other hand, the administration will claim that the Tariff Board was created to investigate the cost of production at home and abroad, and that before any action is taken on any schedule of the Payne-Aldrich tariff act, the report of this body should be made. This will be used as justification for any veto the President may resort to.

Then there is the La Follette boom. He is the avowed candidate of many of the insurgents for the presidency. He has just led the fight that caused the adoption of his substitute bill on wool. The country knows that it was La Follette that made the passage possible, and his friends will loudly claim that he, from that time on, became the one real leader of the Progressives. They say he will lead the Republican party in 1916.

So far as immediate results of the present fight are concerned the effect it will have on the Democratic chances for the presidency is more imprtant than any other consideration. There can be no doubt that this party is using the extra session to build up campaign material for next year. This is frankly admitted.

The Democrats say that this is the first opportunity they have had since the days of Cleveland to put the Republican party on record. During the previous Congresses since the last Democratic President, both branches have been controlled by Republican majorities. Now the Combinations are strong enough, they say to "smoke Republicans out," and they propose to do some smoking.

And these Democrats are hopeful that the tariff legislation of the extra session will give them the confidence of the great mass of voters in the elections next year. They are going before the country on a tariff revision platform, and they will hold up the Republican opposition to cheaper wool, cheaper steel, cheaper cotton and cheaper food as reasons why the Democratic party should rule the country.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES.

The coaching school for high school students completed its course last Tuesday and the 25 students enrolled passed the examination in a highly creditable manner. J. F. Lide of Darlington, S. C., the teacher employed by the Young Women's Christian Association, is a young man of exceptional ability, and by his thorough and earnest work was able to complet the course in six weeks instead of eight as at first planned, to the gratification of the students who will appreciate the added two weeks of vacation.

The Young Women's Christian Association is co-operating with the Playground and Kindergarten Association and the Civic League in operating the playground on Greene street, the Y. W. C. A. having charge of the ground at the noon hour and after 6 o'clock in the evening. The use of the playground has been presented to the girls employed in Seidenberg & Co's. factory and many of them daily eat their lunches under the trees and spend the remainder of the noon hour in games.

The Ramblers, a nature study club, under the direction of Miss Mary Belle Thomas, take weekly walks in the country to study birds and flowers. This club is open to all girls between the ages of 13 and 16 years, and meets at the Association rooms every Tuesday at 9:30 a. m.

The Y. W. C. A. bowling club has been enjoying the use of the alleys of Lindley Park every Wednesday morning for the past several weeks. Mrs. J. L. Brockman has thus far headed the list for the highest score. All members of the Association wishing to bowl Wednesday morning or to learn the game may 'phone to Mrs. Brockman.

From Monday, August 7, to September 1, while the general secretary is absent on vacation, the office will be in charge of Mrs. Agnes Ellinwood, and office hours will be 11 a. m. to 2 p. m., and 5.30 to 6:30 p. m.

ASHEVILLE'S BAD MAN GOES TO CHAINGANG

Asheville, Aug. 7.—According to statements at police headquarters yesterday Wiley Black's legs are likely to give him trouble again. It is reported that he now declares that unless the pains in his lower limbs cease he will be compelled to use crutches during the time that he will be at work on the gang. He was taken yesterday morning to Luther's camp, where he must serve about eleven months and he was downcast when he was told that he would have to make the trip. He thought all along that there would be some way for his escape from the roads, which he confesses he does not like at all. The work does not agree with him, he declares.

There is some little discussion as to whether or not the county will be compelled to buy beer for Black while he is on the chain gang. It was recently testified that twelve bottles a day were necessary to keep his heart beating. If he's put to hard work, the chances are that at least twenty-four bottles will be necessary each day to keep the blood traveling through his veins. It is not known whether or not the camp at which he will make his headquarters is stocked with a beer refriegrator, although it is probable that it is not. If such is the case, Wiley's thirst will likely grow unquenchable.

Black is of the opinion that he's a persecuted man. It is said that he believes everybody's down on him. The preachers, he declares, don't like his standard of morals and the policemen simply won't let him alone. He wonders how he will be treated while a member of the convict force.

TO HOLD FEATHER BRUSH

Pretty and Ornamental Little Affairs Can Easily Be Made by Skillful Fingers.

A feather brush is a very necessary little article that should always be handy in almost every room, and as a rule it finds a place upon a nail by the side of the fireplace. But pretty and ornamental little holders can be made for these brushes, and we give a sketch of a dainty little article of this kind.

It is made of a diamond-shaped piece of stout cardboard, measuring eight inches across, and smoothly covered with silk and then edged with silk cord carried into three loops at each point, the center loop at the top being a little longer than the others, as it is by this loop that the holder is suspended from a nail in the wall. A band of ribbon is sewn across the center and finished off with a smart bow on either side. Under this band the handle of the brush may be easily slipped and the brush held in its place in the way shown.

To make the holder successful, in selecting the colors of the silk, the cord and the ribbon, the color of the wall paper on which it is to hang should be taken into consideration.

COLLARS MADE AT HOME

Sailor Pattern Has First Place This Summer Among Girls Who Follow Fashion's Dictates.

This summer the sailor collar has first place, and the girl who has not a goodly supply of them must replenish her wardrobe. This can be done at small cost. All that is needed are ideas.

Get a well-fitting sailor pattern, adjust it to your neck, and vary the designs and shapes with each new collar. As the deeper ones are only effective on the young and slender, make more of the shallow ones.

With the sailor backs the fronts can be varied; sometimes brought to a shallow point, again reach to the bust line with a plastron inserted; squared across the front or shaped into revers. A smart shape has back and front indented—that is, a small square cut out of each corner.

A yard or two of cotton marquisette, lawn, or dotted muslin will make many. Short lengths of lace and insertion or bits of all-over embroidery may be used.

As many of the newest collars have a contrasting binding or are combined of several kinds of material, the deft girl can often get a good-looking collar for little.

A good style collar is in sheer linen, lawn or a fine pique covered with conventional designs in hand embroidery. A combination of vines done in eyelet and solid dots is effective, or medallions of lace in the corners of the collar and at back can be connected with lines of dots or delicate vinery in satin stitch.

Do not put too much work on these collars. All-over embroidered batiste, flowered Swiss and open embroidery, or nets, give the same effect.

A handsome collar, resembling a fichu in front, is made from white lawn, edged with inch-wide Cluny insertion and stiped diagonally with narrow insertion. Outlining the collar is a double frill of finely plaited mull with a finished edge. This is sewed to the insertion and is rounded quite fully acrss the narrow squared fronts.

A quickly made collar of lawn has an edging of heavy lace with insertion to match run diagonally from corners to match at back and brought straight across the squared fronts. Medallions of the same lace are used across the lower edge of the collar or rows of diamond shapes alternating with a large coin dot all worked in heavily padded satin stitch in white.

A smart-looking collar of white pique with dark blue or red dots can have binding of plain white pique or of the same tone as the dots. These need careful laundering.

Three-Piece Suits.

Young girls are wearing three-piece suits of linen comprising attached blouse and skirt and a box coat all of a simple nature. A favorite model has the skirt formed of two pieces that are gored at the top as little as possible and put together with the front overlapping the back, the opening being at the side, while the blouse is cut low at the neck and trimmed with braid loops and buttons of a smaller size than those used on the coat.

USE OF THE ODD WAIST

FASHION DICTATES CERTAIN RULES TO BE FOLLOWED.

Garment Has Important Place in the Modern Wardrobe—Blouse Styles for Light Purses and Home Dressmaking.

The province of the odd waist is an important one this season, yet, somehow fashion decrees that a light bodice shall not be worn with a dark skirt unless it is covered with a coat. The reason of this objection is obvious enough to those who study the harmonious effect of the whole. However beautiful the white or pale bodice may be, when worn alone with a skirt in a dark color the sharp contrast cuts the figure in two, shortening thereby the length of limb required for grace and making the torso seem dumpy. So the all-white or delicately-colored blouse is confined to the coat suit, and even then the ensemble is better if the costume matches.

With all white materials, in the best instances Irish lace is employed, though it is more often put with a bit of other dentelle than used alone. The narrow tuck known as the "pin" is more frequently used than wider ones, and although the front frill that goes from the neck to the belt has its adherents since it involves a front opening and the back fastening is more popular, it gives something of a staid look with the high stock that accompanies it.

Only the mannish shirt has long sleeves, the shirt that has a stiff collar, or one that turns over in this manner. The sleeves of all the rest are three-quarter length and the majority in kimono style. Some day, we are constantly told, Dame Fashion means to call in the pretty and becoming models which go under the names of kimono, peasant and mandarin, but waists, frocks and coats—even nighties, chemises and corset bodies—still show the sleeve and sides in one. In fact, such sleeves as are put in at the armhole must even pay tribute to the kimono styles with a top flatness and scantness that suggest the genuine cut. When a fashion is recognized as becoming it is hard to oust it, and surely we have had no style this long while so becoming to the shoulders, arm and general lines of the figure as the kimono sleeves. It is one of the devices for obtaining the straight up and down silhouette now so much admired, and with the short waist line that latterly goes with it, it seems always jaunty and youthful.

Our illustration presents the bodice cut young girls admire, but which may be worn by any woman whose throat is good enough to bear the low line of the sailor collar. It is in one-piece kimono style, with a back fastening, kimono sleeves and a V cut of the neck to accommodate the points of the square back collar. The lower view of the cut displays how the neck may be made high if this arrangement is liked.

Such a waist style has unnumbered uses. The bodice may be made of a thin lawn, pin tucked all over and trimmed with a deep collar and cuffs of the same, edged with a simple embroidery. It could be of tucked chiffon, of marquisette, net, thin silk, and so on. As part of a thin marquisette or veiling dress, indeed, this waist style would be very pretty. Three yards of material 27 inches wide are required for the medium figure.

MARY DEAN.

Striped Silks.

One of the last words from Paris that most of ever changing fashions, is that striped silks are to be very much in vogue during the season.

The smart shops are already showing some of the lovely fabrics which it is said the fashionable modistes have employed for their model gowns.

Taffetas with hair line stripes, Louises and some lustrous messalines with faint, delicate lines of color, are certainly very charming and most fascinating and will make delightful little gowns.

And as stripes have the effect of making the wearer look slim and of adding height, there will doubtless be many women delighted to embrace the new mode.

THERE'S Probably a Classified Ad in this Issue That's of Even More Importance to You Than to the Advertiser Himself!

Can't you conceive how this may be true?

Suppose it's an ad offering employment that would be both congenial and profitable to you—or an ad of a place to live where life would be twice as good and livable to you as where you are now "passing" it—or a real estate ad, affording an undeniable profit-opportunity to an investor who has real estate "gumption"—or an ad through which that nearly-satisfactory servant is at last found! Would not ads of these sorts be of really greater importance to you than to the people who wrote them and paid for having them published in this paper?

ARREST PREACHER FOR DISTURBANCE.

Bitter Row in Halifax Church Over Two Members Who Voted "Wet."

Richmond, Aug. 7.—Having a preacher arrested because his sermons tended to provoke a breach of the peace is a somewhat new proceeding in Virginia, and yet it happened a few days ago. Richmonders who chanced to be present during the past week at the annual meeting of the Dan River Baptist Association bring the story.

It seems that at a local option election recently held in one of the magisterial districts of Pittsylvania county two members of a Baptist church at Clover voted for the saloons. Thereupon the preacher, highly indignant, denounced the men from the pulpit. The two memmers, incensed at the language used, caused a warrant to issue for the minister's arrest, charging that his words were such as were calculated to cause a row, which would be inimical to the peace and dignity of the Commonwealth.

Having given bail, the preacher had a meeting of his faithful members and elected delegates to the annual meeting of the Dan River Association. The other faction, gathering around them a part of the membership, also met and chose a set of delegates. The preacher and his adherents then met and turned the "wet" brethren out of the church.

At the meeting of the association the contesting delegations from the Clover church applied for admission, and a committee was appointed to hear both sides. This body reported that the two men were irregular as delegates, having been declared outcasts from the church. So the preacher's side was victorious.

"Don't let your daughter go out with that fellow. He's a fool in a boat."

"Will he rock it?"

"No; but he'll propose to her sure."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

BELIEVED THAT COMPROMISE BILLS ARE AGREED UPON

Washington, Aug. 7.—Senator LaFollette and Chairman Underwood did not meet in conference on the free list and wool schedule today. It is believed that they have agreed on compromise bills and that they will await the action of the Senate on the cotton bill before recommending a compromise on the two other bills and that they will then send all three measures to President for his action.

TEXT-BOOK COMMISSION INVESTIGATING REPORTS.

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, Aug. 7.—The investigation by the State Text-Book Commission and Sub-commission into the rumors that have been rife here among bookmen of underhand and combinations in efforts to secure adoptions is on, an executive session having been in progress all morning and to two o'clock, much of the time being taken with the examination of witnesses. The most complete secrecy is being maintained, but it is understood that little foundation, in fact, is being found for the most serious charges which would have involved personal character. The commission is to issue a statement later and will continue in session this afternoon and tonight.

WHAT WORRIED THE OLD MAN

Peculiar Instance of Connubial Affection—Concerned More About Himself Than Wife.

A peculiar instance of connubial affection occurred some time ago in Vermont. An aged couple, who through half a century of married life had wrangled with each other, were in all probability soon to be separated. The husband was taken ill and was believed to be near his end. The old wife came to his bedside, and after carefully examining and taking stock of his condition, exclaimed: "Well, daddy, your feet are cold, your hands are cold and your nose is cold."

"Wa'al, let 'em be cold."

"W'y, daddy, you're goin' to die."

"Wa'al, I guess I know what I'm about."

"Daddy, what's to become of me if you die?"

"I dunno, and I don't care. What I want to know is, what's to become of me?"

Why He Quit.

"Haven't I the privilege of making suggestions to the man fixing the lawn?" she asked with tears in her voice.

"Why, certainly," he assured her.

"Well, just because I made a suggestion to him he threw all his tools in the wheelbarrow in an angry manner and went away without saying a word."

"Why, what had you said to make him act like that?"

"I just asked him to plant a few nice bright dandelions in the lawn."

WHAT DID SHE MEAN?

Cholly Chumpleigh—I, aw-often refrain from-aw-joining in a discussion, for fear of making-aw-a fool of myself, don't cher know.

Miss Cutting Hintz—One cannot paint the lily or gild refined gold.

A Dangerous Metaphor.

The poetic youth had tarried long and conversation was waning.

"I am never lonely," he observed. "My mind is a kingdom."

"A limited monarchy?" she queried sweetly.—Answers.

The Last Resort.

"How do you suppose that aviator is going to raise the wind?"

"I suppose on a bank of clouds."

Slightly Envious.

"I suppose you are happy, with all the wealth you have accumulated?"

"There is one man I envy," replied Mr. Chuggins.

"Who is that?"

"The motorcycle policeman. Every once in a while he gets a chance to violate the speed limits without being arrested."

Truthful Man.

"You appear to have every confidence in your husband."

"Well, he is very truthful. For instance, he sent me word yesterday that he was detained down town."

"By business, eh?"

"No; by baseball."

Is This a Hint?

"Why do you smoke cigarettes?"

"Why not? Robert Louis Stevenson smoked them."

"Yes—but he went and lived on the island of Samoa while he did."

How It's Usually Done.

"I've just written a scathing letter denouncing that newspaper, calling it cowardly and spineless," said the indignant citizen.

"Did you sign your name to it?" asked the stranger.

"No—I signed it 'One Who Knows.' I didn't want the editor to know who wrote it," he replied.

His Limit.

"Could he pay his bills on emergency?"

"No; but he could on time."

POPE PIUS NOW IN CRITICAL CONDITION

Rome, Aug. 7.—Pope Pius suffered a fainting spell this morning and his condition is considered as critical. But little hope is entertained for his recovery.

MANY CONVICTIONS DURING TERM OF NEW HANOVER COURT

Wilmington, Aug. 6.—The July term of New Hanover Superior court, presided over by Judge E. B. Cline, of Hickory, scholar and withal a very fine gentleman of a most attractive personality, expired by limitation last midnight. Judge Cline will leave tomorrow for Sampson county, where he will hold court this week. During his two week's stay here Judge Cline was a guest at the Seashore Hotel, Wrightsville Beach, and he greatly enjoyed his sojourn at that delightful resort.

The term which has just closed was for two weeks and nearly all the time was occupied, the result being that the docket was practically cleared with the exception of the two cases against J. C. Holly, charged with murder and arson. Three murder cases were tried during the term in addition to some 25 minor cases. This term is considered one of the best in some years in the way of results—convictions.

Improving Drainage System.

In connection with the completion of the addition to the building of Jos. J. Stone and Company a complete drainage system is being installed for the building and also the Benbow Arcade biulding. Heretofore the water from these buildings has been allowed to run away by surface drainage and consequently the alleys in the rear of the buildings were always in bad condition. Now each gutter spout is being connected with an under-ground pipe and the alleyway can then be kept in fine condition.

BEGIN CANVASSING FOR NEW DIRECTORY.

Canvassers of the Hill Directory Company of Richmond, Va., who have published directories for Greensboro in the past, are busily engaged in this city gathering data for the new City Directory, which will be published within the next few months. This company has issued a directory for Greensboro every two years for some time, and for the work in preparing the new book the company has opened offices in the McAdoo building.

ADDITIONS TO STREET FORCE DURING JULY

In their most important work of deterring crime the accomplishments of the police canont be directly ascertained but in the second department of punishing criminals the efforts of the force during the past month of July show noteworthy results. One hundred and ninety-one warrants were issued for a variety of offenses. Of this number all but six were served and the defendants forced to answer the preferred charges in court. Judge Eure has materially increased the number of negroes on the street force, 33 prisoners receiving sentences for the streets during the month. The aggregate term given these men is 12 years, 4 months, and 10 days. With this addition and allowing for expirations of sentences and other dismisals, the city now has a force of 35 men on the streets and the expense of maintaining the gang is diminishing with each new recruit. Sixteen women received sentences to the county workhouse with a total term of labor of 68 months. Selling cocaine was the offense whose commission sent the largest number to jail and work sentences. Twenty-four negroes, men and women, were convicted on this charge. Whiskey also was the cause of the downfall of a number, 15 drunks unable to care for themselves, 5 drunk and disorderly, and 4 for retailing, was the mischief that its promiscuous use caused.

New Foundry Co.

The W. B. Cook Foundry Company has been purchased by the owners of the Guilford Foundry Company and with a new organization the purchasers are operating the plant. The officers are: W. W. Smith, president; W. A. Cook, vice-president and general superintendent; and C. D. Benbow, Jr., secretary and treasurer.

Tickets to Orphans' Concert.

Already a number of tickets for the Orphans' Concert Friday evening have been disposed of and the attendance promises to tax the capacity of the auditorium. Those who have not secured seats are requested by the committee to do so at once. The concert will be held in the annex of West Market Street Methodist church, beginning at 8 o'clock.

TO THE STREETS FOR NINE MONTHS

Charged with an assault with a deadly weapon, Tom Pankey, a stalwart young negro, confessed in Municipal court to shooting a revolver at Jim McIver after Jim had thrown a bottle at him and fled. The shooting occurred last week and Jim, though now able to walk on crutches, is carrying a bullet in the bone of his leg. On the testimony of the victim of the assault and Tom's confession, Judge Eure sent the gunner to work on the streets for a term of 9 months.

Dr. H. P. Bowman, for allowing his chickens to run at large was taxed with the costs of the case.

The case against Jesse Gattie for allowing grass to grow on the sidewalk in front of his house, was dismissed on the payment of the costs.

TO SELL SCHOOL BONDS.

Finance Committee of Charlotte Aldermen Will Prepare to Advertise $100,000 Bonds for Sale.

Charlotte, Aug. 7.—Plans for the early issue and sale of $100,000 bonds for the improvement of Charlotte's schools will be made by the finance committee of the board of aldermen, meeting this afternoon at 5 o'clock at the city hall. The issuance of the bonds were authorized at the election on July 4, the vote in favor of these being larger than any others. It would have been just as large had the amount been $150,000 as it was first proposed and should have remained, somebody cutting the figures down in the shuffle either here or at Raleigh. The committee, of which Mr. E. W. Thompson is chairman, will issue circulars and place advertisements, offering the bonds to the public. No difficulty in placing them is anticipated.

There will be no lack of things for which to spend the money as soon as it becomes available. A very distinct improvement in the comfortableness of the buildings and the efficiency of the schools is expected to result.

HAVEMEYERS IN BIG SUIT

Ex-Congressman Bliss Claims Part Ownership in Washington Land.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—Suit involving ownership of a tract of land in the District of Columbia, valued at $500,000, is pending in the District Supreme court. The widow of Theodore E. Havemeyer, Henry O. Havemeyer and a number of other heirs, and John Mayer, trustee and executor, are defendants.

Archibald M. Bliss, former Congressman from Brooklyn, the plaintiff, alleges, that in 1890 he purchased the property, Theodore E. Havemeyer furnishing the money. He further alleges that though title was in the name of Havemeyer, there was an understanding that ownership was joint. Mr. Bliss is in possession of the property and seeks to enjoin the heirs from prosecuting a suit to evict him.

PRESSURE ON SENATE

Favorable Action on Peace Treaties Is Desired.

Washington, Aug. 7.—Pressure is being brought to bear on the Senate to act favorably on the arbitration treaties recently signed between the United States and Great Britain and the United States and France. The only hitch apparently at the present time is the fear of the Senate that some of its treaty-making prerogatives may be endangered by the new conventions. This is denied by Secretary of State Knox.

"While the scope of the treaties just signed," he declared, "has been enlarged to include questions of vital interest and national honor, excepted in the arbitration treaties now in force with France and Great Britain, the relations of the Senate to the arbitration proceedings remains the same as in the treaties now in force as will appear from the texts."

Both the President and Secretary Knox are highly desirous of having the treaties passed by the Senate before adjournment.

CAROLINA LEAGUE MAKING RECORD IN HOME RUNS.

Sunday's Charlotte Observer says:

The Carolina League is making something of a record this season in the number of home runs that have been negotiated. Prior to the games yesterday, there had been 153 circuit swats made since the season opened, while the number of two-base and three-base licks have also run up to enlarged proportions. Smith of Greenville is the chief offender in the matters of home runs, having made 14 so far this season. Coutts of Charlotte, Walker of Spartanburg and Shumaker of Winston-Salem have made eight, Laval of Spartanburg and Doak of Greenville seven, Kelly of Anderson, O'Halloran of Winston and Goodman of Greenville made six while there are 42 players in the league who have from one to five to their credit. The first nine men whose names are mentioned have negotiated 64 four-sack licks. Last season only 40 home runs were made during the entire playing program and Red Smith of Anderson held the honors with four.

Whether the league is as fast this year as it was last doesn't seem to admit of much question from the records as compiled by Secretary John W. Todd. If the caliber of baseball is judged by the hitting abilities of the teams, there is no comparison at all, all the odds being in favor of the present season with an average hitting record of .265 1-2 against .219 1-2 last year. There is only a half point difference in the average fielding of the combined clubs, but the fraction is in favor of this season's records. Anderson is still leading the league with the willow, having a club average of .282. Charlotte is lowest with .252. Another evidence that the league this year possesses better and more promising ball players than were in the company last year is the fact that more sales have been negotiated and there is a likelihood of more drafts being exercised this fall.

Daniel B. Sharp Died Saturday at Hospital

DEBATE ON STATEHOOD BILL RESUMED

Washington, Aug. 7.—The Senate met at 10 o'clock and resumed the debate on the Statehood bill, which will be voted on tomorrow. The indications are that the bill, admitting Arizona and New Mexico to statehood, will be passed.

Senator Poindexter discussed the bill admitting New Mexico and Arizona to statehood. He advocated the resolution which passed the House as introduced, by Representative Flood, in which the constitution of New Mexico and Arizona were approved, but giving the people of the territories the right to vote again on the recall of Judges in the original constitution and on one or two minor clauses in the new Mexico constitution.

THE SHONTSES RECONCILED?

Report Renewed Following Their Departure Together For Cape May.

New York, Aug. 7.—Rumors that Mrs. Theodore P. Shonts, who some weeks ago began a suit for a separation and release from her marital obligations against the president of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, had become reconciled to her husband received fresh impetus Saturday night from an announcement sent out from the Hotel Plaza. It said:

"Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Shonts, the Duchess de Chaulnes, and Miss Margaret Shonts, who have been at the Plaza since their arrival from Europe, left this afternoon for Cape May, N. J., to spend the balance of the season."

When Mrs. Shonts returned here from Paris with her daughter, the Duchess de Chaulness, and was met at the pier by Mr. Shonts, a report soon spread that the couple had made up their differences. The duchess, it was said, had been the mediator. This report received neither denial nor affirmation from Mr. and Mrs. Shonts and their friends.

FOOTBALL PROSPECTS BRIGHTER THAN EVER

Perfection of Game Under New Rules Means More Open Play--All Big Colleges Have Well Filled Schedules.

The 1911 football season will be one of the most important in the history of the Rugby game, fully 1,000 games being throughout the country, and the game played under the new rules, which make for open play, promises to enjoy its usual popularity from early September until the championships are decided in November. All the colleges, schools and academies have practically decided upon their gridiron schedule, and already many of the candidates are quietly at work in preparation for the season's matches.

All the teams have elected captains, who will be assisted in their work by the experience of coaches. Three more of the big Eastern colleges will try the graduate coaching system this year—Yale, Princeton and Syracuse. Yale candidates are to report on September 14 at New Haven, while Harvard and Cornell have named September 18 as the day upon which realpreliminary work will begin.

One of the big features of the season will be the meeting of Harvard and Princeton at Princeton on November 4. They last met fourteen years ago, when the Tigers lowered the Crimson colors. Harvard, too, will play the Carlisle Indians at Cambridge this year.

Season Begins Early.

The season will begin on Saturday, September 23, and by Saturday, September 30, or the following Saturday, all the elevens will be seen in action. Intersectional games will feature the season's play. Michigan will meet Pennsylvania, Cornell and Syracuse. They visit the Ithaca institution for the first time, while their final match in the West will be with Nebraska at Linsoln. For the first time since they withdrey from the Western conference they will not battle againt any of the big Western college team.

Syracuse is to play Michigan, Ohio State, and St. Louis on the fields of the latter teams. Cornell, in addition to the game with Michigan, also lines up aginst Chicago, Pittsburg, which passed through last year's games without being scored scored upon, will have a much harder scheulde this year, including a visit from the Notre Dame eleven. The game may be played on the new athletic field there. The season will also mark the renewal of friendly relations between several of the prominent teams which have not met in recent years.

The Carlisle Indians, who are perhaps the best known of any of the red men elevens, by reason of the fact that they have played in many of the big cities of the country in recent years, will this year confine their matches to the East. They have twelve games scheuled beginning on September23, and concluding on November 30 with Brown University at Providence.

Army-Navy Not Chosen.

So far no announcement has been made as to where the annual Army-Navy game will be played on Saturday, December 2. It has been customary to play the game on Franklin Field, Philadelphia but a dispute over the distribution of the tickets makes it possible that the University of Pennsylvania authorities will not stage the social and spectacular event this year. It may be played at one of the Philadelphia baseball grounds or one of the big college gridirons.

Princeton is to play Annapolis on the latter's grounds on October 21, while Yale will mett West Point on the same day.

The schedule of the big five calls for the following games: Pennsylvania, 11, September 23 to November 30; Yale, 10, September 27 to November 25; Harvard 9, September 30 to November 25; Princeton, 10, September 30 to November 18; Cornell, 10, September 27 to November 30.

Games That Decide Championship.

The dates for the intersectional and championship games follow:

Saturday, November 4.—Harvard vs. Princeton, at Princeton; Syracuse vs. Michigan, at Ann Arbor; Pittsburg vs. Notre Dame, at Pittsburg; Chicago vs. Minnesota, at Minneapolis.

Saturday November 11.—Carlisle Indians vs. Harvard, at Cambridge, Dartmouth, vs. Princeton, at Princeton; Brown vs. Yale, at New Haven; Lafayette vs. Pennsylvania, at Philadelphia; Cornell vs. Michigan, at Ithaca; Illinois vs. Indiana, at Indianapolis.

He Couldnt Love Them.

A story is told of a missionary who was spending a short holiday in Texas. After he had been at his hotel for some days he met with a very fierce looking man of the cowboy type who, he noticed, had anything but a sweet temper. "Do you know," he said to him one day, "that you should love your enemies."

"That's a thing I can't do, sir."

"What? I am sure a man like you could do anything if he tried."

"Anything but that, parson; it's impossible."

"Impossible," said the missionary, "how?"

"I ain't got an enemy to love. I shot the last one this morning."

Canoe Tilting and Water Push Ball Are Summer Resort Sports

Photos by American Press Association.

CANOE tilting, a variation of a sport popular in medieval times, has been revived at summer resorts. The contestants ride in canoes instead of on horses. Armed with long poles instead of lances, they try to upset their opponents just as knights of old tried to upset their rivals. As the upsets are frequent the contestants wear bathing suits so that no damage is done, and they have only to right their canoes and climb aboard again to be ready for another encounter. Water push ball is another game that is popular. It is the same as push ball on the ground and is very simple, consisting of one side trying to force the huge globe in one direction, while the other side tries to push it the other until a goal is reached. The pictures of canoe tilting and water push ball shown above were made at the Larchmont Yacht club on Long Island sound. The other picture shows a game of push ball as played by the students at Columbia college, New York.

If a young man twists up his mustache just before bidding a girl good night, it isn't likely she'll be disappointed.

"So you have had a long siege of nervous prostration?" we say to the haggard author. "What caused it? Overwork?"

"In a way, yes," he answers weakly. "I tried to do a novel with a Robert W. Chambers hero and a Mary E. Wilkins heroine."—Life.

TAFT WILL SPEAK ON OPENING DAY

President Heartily in Favor of Great Work for Better Highways.

Richmond, Aug. 7.—With the statement that no single movement before the country today promises such big returns on the money invested, President Taft has definitely informed the officers of the American Association for Highway Improvement that he will make an address on the subject of the improvement and maintenance of public roads at the convention of the association to be held at Richmond, November 20 to 24. The President will speak on the opening day of the convention, Monday, November 20.

President Taft has repeatedly mad it plain that he is heartily in favor of the good roads movement that is spreading over the United States, and that he is willing to do all in his power to further it. He is particularly enthusiastic over the work of correlation and co-ordination that is being done by the American Association for Highway Improvements, and has accepted a regular membership in that organization.

To Speak on Opening Day.

In order to fit in with the engagements of the President, the date of the convention was changed from October to November 20 to 24, and now that the President has definitely informed the officers of the association that he will speak on the opening day, the success of the convention is assured.

All the road associations in the United States and Canada, which are affiliated with the American Association for Highway Improvement, will take part in the convention to be held in Richmond, and automobile tours are being arranged under the direction of the Touring Club of America, which is also an associate member of the American Association.

Hundreds of manufacturers of road machinery and road materials have already put in their applications for space at the hall where the exhibition feature of the convention is to be held, and the enthusiastic manner in which everybody interested in the subject of improved highways is aiding in the preliminary arrangements makes it certain that the convention will be one of the largest ever held in this country.

General DuPont Coming.

General T. Coleman DuPont, who is financing a $2,000,000 across the State of Delaware, has accepted an invitation to be one of the speakers. Congressman J. Hampton Moore, of Pennsylvania, who previously has been mainly identified with the improvement of the waterways of the country, has been elected a director of the American Association of Highway improvement, and will devote much of his time to the cause of improving the public roads of the country. He will be one of the speakers at the Richmond convention.

Logan Waller Page, director of the government office of public roads, will make an address, as will also Senator Swanson of Virginia, minority leader of the Senate, will likewise make an address. Other men of national prominence who have consented to address the gathering are Dr. Waller Page, editor and publisher; W. W. Finley, president Southern Railway Company; B. F. Youkum, chairman of the Frisco Lines; W. C. Brown, president of the New York Central Lines; Harold Parker, chairman of the Massachusetts state Highway Commission, and most of the leading highway engineers of the country.

Patriots Defeat Twins.

Winston-Salem, Aug. 5.—Rube Eldridge had the Twins badly enmeshed in his fins this afternoon and the Partiots got away nicely with the game, Boyle being without effect in a couple of innings, the fifth when four singles netted three runs and the eighth when two singles, an er- and a sacrifice fetched over the other two. Eldridge deserved a shut-out, but his own error let in Clemmons in the first inning and this was the only time the Twins got in smelling distance of the platter. The fielding of both inner works was splendid, particularly that of Doyle, Doak and Carroll, while Clancy and O'Halloran got rid of some excellent feats.

ALL STARS DEFEATED GROOMETOWN SATURDAY.

In one of the most interesting games played on the Groomtown "field," Coffin's "All-Stars," succeeding in beating the Groomtown team by a score of 4 to 2 At several points during the game it looked as though the All-Stars' winning streak would be broken, but the necessary hit was not forthcoming. The pitching of I. Groom for Groometown was the feature of the game, despite the fact that his team lost, having 13 strike-outs to his credit, and allowing eight hits, two of which were for two bases by King and Preyer. Watkins, of the All-Stars lead in the batting, getting three hits out of 5 times up.

After the game the Groom brothers showed that the defeat had not dampened their usual hospitality, by bringing out several fine watermelons from the spring house, and setting them before the two teams. It is said that the "City fellers" also lead in the "making away" of the melons, which were enjoyed to the rine.

Why Ask?

A teacher in an East Side public school was hearing the class in arthmetic.

"I entered a department store," she said, "paid two dollars for gloves, a dollar and a quarter for a belt and twenty eight cents for hairpins. I gave the clerk a five dollar bill. Now, how much change did I receive? Can you tell me, Ikey?" she asked, turning to a little Russian Jew. Ikey looked at her in astonishment.

"Vy, teacher!" he exclaimed, "for vy you didn't count yer change?"

Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

Thirty Years Together.

Thirty years of association—think of it. How the merit of a good thing stands out in that time—or the worthlessness of a bad one. So there's no guess work in this evidence of Thos. Ariss, Concord, Mich., who writes: "I have used Dr. King's New Discovery for 30 years, and its the best cough and cold cure I ever used." Once it finds entrance in a home you can't pry it out. Many families have used it for forty years. It's the most infallible throat and lung medicine on earth. Unequaled for lagrippe, asthma, hay fever, croup, quinsy or sore lungs. Price 50c, $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by Fariss Klutz Drug Co.

IS BOTH SIMPLE AND HANDY

Pincushion Easily Made for Dresser or in Miniature for the Waistcoat Pocket.

This little pincushion recommends itself in many ways; it is very easy to make either for placing upon the dressing table or for hanging over the post of the looking glass, or it can be made in miniature for the waistcoat pocket.

For the dressing table is should measure about four and a half inches across and one inch in thickness. To commence making it, two heart-shaped pieces of cardboard should be cut out and smoothly covered with silk on which the simple design shown in the sketch has been worked in silks of some contrasting color. Velvet ribbon about an inch in width is sewn to the edges of the two sides, and before the sides are completely fastened together the space between them is well stuffed with cotton wool, and lastly, to finish the cushion, it is edged all round with a silk cord. When it is desired to hang the cushion up, then a loop of cord is easily added.

For a waistcoat pocket pincushion of this design very thin cardboard should be used, and an old visiting card may be cut up for the purpose, and the cushion, when complete, should be a little larger or thicker than a half crown piece. Initials might take the place of the floral design worked on the larger cushion.

HOW STAINS CAN BE REMOVED

Fruit Stains Should Be Treated at Once With Soap and Salt and Water.

Fruit stains should be treated at once. Rub the stain with soft soap or good yellow soap, well wetted, and then cover it with a paste of salt and water.

If the fingers are stained from walnuts dip them in strong tea, rubbing the nails well with it, with a nail brush and wash the hands at once in warm water and the stains will disappear. If grass stains are rubbed with pure alcohol they will disappear, but this should be done at once. For claret stains soak the cloth at once in skim milk and wash out in cold water.

White stains on polished wood caused by upsetting any spirit or by overhot dishes or plates may be removed by applying to these spots a feather dipped in spirits of camphor. This must be used very sparingly and the furniture rubbed well with a cloth dipped in sweet oil, repeating the process is necessary. When the stain is completely removed polish well with beeswax and turpentine or any good furniture polish. To clean ivory rub the stains with lemon juice, then with whiting made into a soft paste with lemon juice; allow this to dry on and when perfectly dry rub off with a soft cloth.

Real Lace on Lingerie.

The "peasant" nightgowns, which fall in lovely, molding lines over the arm and shoulder, are so attractive that one hopes the style will continue in favor indefinitely. The whole top is more and more tendency to use real of the nightgown is cut from one piece of lace or allover embroidery and this seamless top is joined to the nainsook gown under a ribbon beading of rich Cluny or Irish insertion. There is more and more tendency to use real laces on underwear, and Irish crochet, especially, is seen on the the filmy garments that come from Paris. Such lace will outwear the cobwebby garment of batiste, mull or nainsook, on which it is placed, but it is always worth while to rip out handsome lace from half-worn garments and use it a second time.

Newest Thing in Combs.

The latest novelty in combs is one made of paper. It is made of a hard, smooth finished cardboard. It is not a fine toothed comb; in fact its teeth are like long drawn out saw teeth, but it serves its purpose—you can comb your hair with it.

The paper comb is one to be used once and then thrown away. It is designed for travelers and for use in public baths and in various other places where now might be found combs kept for common use; in such places these combs might be supplied by the establishment free.

It is not costly, the paper comb; put up in a waxed paper holder, it is sold at retail for one cent.

A Pretty New Slipper.

A pretty slipper of white calf is intended for the woman who wants something a little different from the ordinary white walking tie or pump to wear with her lingerie afternoon frocks. A four-barred strap buttons across the front, and the slipper itself is cut out to add two more bars to the series. The heel is a covered one in Cuban style.

Mistress Make-Believe

Aunt Matilda is perfectly discouraged with me. She has been keeping house for father and me just a week and she told father last night that she couldn't stand it any longer because I'm such a problem. I don't know what she meant by that.

Mother used to call me a blessing, a dreamer girl, a darling and a hug me tight and lots of other things, but she never called me a problem.

I stood in the door of the library when Aunt Matilda began to talk to father last night and when she saw me there listening she just closed up her lips tight and pretended to read a book which was upside down.

"Don't mind Janey, Matilda," said father. "We never have excluded her from any family councils."

"But it is about her I wish to speak," she said.

"Why, if it's about Janey she certainly ought to be present," said father in what mother called his dear, decisive way.

"Just as you say, William. Anything that's agreeable to you," said Aunt Matilda, who didn't look a bit agreeable herself.

I wish she had curls around her face, because her pompadour shows so much of her forehead and it's a kind of cross, worried forehead. Mother didn't have any of those awfully deep lines in her forehead, only once in a while cunning little puckers came above the nose before she decided whether or not to laugh at me. But she almost always decided to laugh and then the puckers dropped down into her cheeks and made dimples there.

"Your child, William," said Aunt Matilda, looking at me severely, "resists all my efforts at correction and I find it impossible to show her the gravity of punishment."

"But we never have found it necessary to punish Janey," said father, smiling at me.

"Well, I think it quite necessary. When a little girl puts on one of her aunt's best gowns and pins on all her aunt's puffs so loosely that they fall off and fly around the yard when she goes out to parade I think it's high time for something to be done. You may laugh, William, but I fail to see the humor in permitting a child to do just as she pleases all the time. I brought Jane in and put her in the closet—the linen one, which is well ventilated, you know—and when in a little while I called her to come out she wouldn't answer. I found her draped from head to foot in one of the best linen sheets. She might have torn it."

"Oh, no, Aunt Matilda," I said. "I wouldn't have torn it. I was Sister Angelica and I had taken the vow of silence for twenty years. I was counting awfully slowly and each count meant a year. I'd only got to seventeen when you called."

"Then what did the little nun do?" asked father.

"I took that sheet off her," answered Aunt Matilda, "and I told her how naughty it was to muss up the clean linen and I gave her the Bible and told her to read three chapters. Then when lunch was ready we rang the bell four times and after that I had to send Hilda for her. Children should never be late to meals."

"But, Aunt Matilda, I was reading about Ruth and I forgot all about lunch. I liked it better than my story books."

"There, William, you see how hopeless it is to try to punish her. In the afternoon I told her she must take a nap. Most children hate to take naps, but Jane untied her hair and lay down perfectly still and slept until I woke her. Then she asked me if I were the prince and she wouldn't get up when I said of course I wasn't a prince."

"You see, Aunt Matilda, I was the sleeping beauty and I was waiting for the prince. If you'd only been the prince I'd have got up the minute you said so, but I had to wait for him."

"Isn't that perfectly absurd, William? I was so annoyed that I—well, perhaps I lost my temper. I threw some water in her face. There's nothing like water to bring children to terms."

Father looked sad for a minute. I was afraid he was vexed because I hadn't got up at once, so I said: "I got up when Aunt Matilda threw the water, father, for then I was Venus springing from the foam of the sea like the pictures you showed me, only I had on my clothes."

Father laughed real hard then, just as heused to laugh when mother was here. That made Aunt Matilda say she guessed he didn't want her to train me into a sensible woman and he said, "The Lord forbid."

Now Aunt Matilda is packing her trunk.

I sat at the head of the table this morning and poured father's coffee.

"I'm the mistress of the manse," I said as I handed him the cup, and he said he expected me to be a wise little mistress, and Aunt Matilda, who just then came into the dining room awfully late, said she didn't know what the end would be.

"No one can tell," answered father. "Janey and I will just have to do the best we can, Matilda. I think there's nobody who can help us."

But, of course, I can help father.

Parents.

DRESSING THE WINDOW

SCHEME FOR DECORATION THAT WILL APPEAL TO HOUSEWIFE.

Anyone With Least Bit of Artistic Sense Can Follow These Simple Directions—Very Few Materials Are Required.

As windows vary in size, you will have to study the illustration and measure your window accordingly before making your purchases. Three pieces of light wood, a few nails, a pole, a few yards of heavy olive-green cloth, thread and gimp tacks, are all the materials necessary.

To ascertain the quantity of goods for the curtains measure your window as follows: Place yardstick at center of top of window casing. Find the distance from this point to the bottom of the window trim. This represents the finished length of your curtain, and if four inches is allowed for the pole opening, you may estimate the required yardage. For windows of the ordinary width, a piece of 50-inch goods may be split, allowing 25 inches to the curtain.

Now examine the lambrequin box in the illustration. Your first procedure should be the building of this box, the small ends of which should be about six inches wide and twelve inches long. The front piece should be a foot wide and of a length sufficient to meet the side pieces when they are nailed to the sides of the window casings. Before fastening the front to the sides of the lambrequin box, it will be wise to fasten two pole sockets close to the outside edges of the sides, taking care that they occupy corresponding positions on each side. Sockets for a lace-curtain pole may be placed just back of the pole sockets, if you wish to use laces. Cover the outside of the lambrequin box with the same goods used to make the hangings. Gimp tacks should be employed to hold it in place, and these may be obtained at the hardware store for a few cents. Take a portion of the curtain goods and boxpleat it by tacking along the lower inner edge of the box, making a flounce ten inches long. The lambrequin is now ready for the window and may be secured by nailing to the side of the window casings.

Should you wish, a border may be worked with worsted yarn, or a tapestry border tacked on the lambrequin box as the picture shows. The lambrequin box should conceal all fixtures for window shades, lace curtains, etc.

Evening Flowers.

The fact that this is to be a great flower year is foreshadowed not only by the embroideries that decorate the dresses, but by the artificial blossoms that adorn so many of the trains, among them carnations, sweet peas, water lilies, geraniums and myriads of roses.

The new way with embroidered flowers is to cut the petals out of silk, satin and velvet and fix them against the train, leaving some to fall outward so that they look as if they were natural blossoms. The padded flower is also very much seen, and is employed for the embellishment of panels.

It is the opinion of the women of today that the large and heavy bouquet not only incommodes its owner, but hides her frock.

New Letter Paper.

Among the new letter papers is a white linen, rather heavy, with a narrow border of blue and pink so pale as to be almost indistinguishable except for a fine line of black which edges it. Much the same effect is obtained with letter paper of pale yellow, gray or any other shade with the border in deeper tones of the same color. In every instance the fine line of black is finished with gilt edging for both paper and envelope.

A Dragon Fly Watch.

We have grown used to watches in various guises, from the tiny pendant not bigger than a locket to the timepiece in an umbrella handle, or set in card case or bracelet.

The latest in watches is an enormous dragon fly in glittering gold, studded with jewels, with a tiny watch hidden under one of its wings. This is worn as a pendant.

PATENT RECORDS AND THEIR VALUE

R. P. King Furnishes Some Information on the Subject.

R. P. King, a well-known farmer of Guilford, on Saturday while investigating the patent records of the government on file here discovered the fact that he was the first man who had ever called to inspect the records. In view of the fact that no one ever called to inspect the records, which accumulated rapidly until they took up considerable space the officials here removed them to the attic of the federal building and stored them away. Mr. King further learned that unless something is done these records will be returned to Washington. Knowing the value of these records to a community Mr. King set about to find out why they were never used and after interrogating several prominent citizens of the city interested in patents found that they did not know such records were here.

This morning Mr. King furnished the following to The Telegram with the view of calling to public attention the value of the records and the necessity of some step to prevent them from being taken from the city:

"A patent is a writ or privilege granted by public authority, conveying exclusive right to use or dispose of some new invention. Section 4886 of the Revised Statutes of the United States provides that 'any patent may be obtained by any person who has invented or discovered any new and useful art, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, not known or used by others in this country before his invention or discovery thereof, and not patented or described in any printed publication in this or any foreign country before his invention or discovery thereof, or more than two years prior to his application, and not patented in a foreign country to the United States on an application filed more than twelve months prior to his application, and not in public use or on sale in the United States for more than two years prior to his application, unless the same is proved to have been abandoned, upon payment of the fees required by law and other due proceedings had.' Rule 30 says:

"'Applications for letters patent of the United States must be made to the Commissioner of Patents, and must be signed by the inventor, if alive. A complete application comprises the first fee of $15, a petition, specification and oath; and drawings, model, or specimen when required. The petition, specification and oath must be in the English language. All papers which are to become a part of the permanent records of the office must be legibly written or printed in permanent ink.' Rule 33 contains the following:

"'The petition must be addressed to the Commissioner of Patents, and must state the name, residence, and postoffice address of the petitioner requesting the grant of a patent, designate by title the invention sought to be patented, contain a reference to the specifications for a full disclosure of such invention, and must be signed by the applicant.'

"'Printed volumes are issued monthly, containing the entire specifications and drawings of all patents issued during the previous month. These are authenticated by the seal of the office, and may be used as evidence throughout the United States. One copy is deposited in the library of Congress and in each state and territorial library, and one copy in the custody of the clerk of each United States District court for general reference.'

"The writer being a resident of Guilford county has called upon the clerk of the United States District Court at Greensboro for permission to inspect the aboev said volumns. I was told that no one else had ever called for the volumns and that they had been carried up into the attic of the building. I then asked to see them anyway and was piloted up several flights of stairs by a janitor who said he did not see any use of the government spending so much money sending this record here. Upon finding the above said volumns I was surprised at the enormous amount and the way they were stored away. Simply because no one had ever called for them. I have seen several prominent citizens in regard to this complete patent office record being here at Greensboro and only one of them, except the official of the building knew they were here.

"I am now informed unless there is some provision made for this record Greensboro will lose this valuable piece of property that Uncle Sam has so gratuously bestowed upon her. I consider this record one of the most important and worthy pieces of property Greensboro can possess. It should mean untold wealth to her citizens; it should stimulate her manufacturing industries and greatest of all it should serve as a protection against dishonest patent attorneys. There is no reason why an attorney could not make a search of the patent office record in Greensboro as well as at Washington, provided this record here is properly arranged as it is the same as at Washington.

"The application could be sent directly to the patent office and the broadest claims secured possible instead of giving your idea to some foreign attorney and giving him the opportunity of reserving the strong claim for his personal benefit and sending back a narrow claim for the poor southerner to sign up and receive his little patent that does not mean much. It is clear to the writer why we southern people do not receive much reward for our ideas, as the value of a patent depends largely upon the skillful preparation of the sepicifcations and claims.

"The object of the article is to inform the citizens of Greensboro and surrounding community that the complete patent office record should be at Greensboro for free public inspection and should be called for and inspected by any one who has an idea that he would like to know if it has been brought out by any one else.

"Trusting that we may receive all discontinued records and that our good citizens wil call for and use this record enough to make Uncle Sam's officials feel the value of properly caring for same.

"I am your truly,

"R. P. KING."

COURT'S ORDER ARRESTS STRIKE IN DES MOINES.

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 7.—Promptly at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon street traffic was resumed in Des Moines and the forty-hour strike, which began at 1 o'clock Saturday morning, when the employes walked out, was terminated.

For the first time in the history of the country, the order of a court put an end to what gave every indication of becoming a long and bitter struggle between organized labor and capital.

The mandate issued by Judge Lawrence de Graffe of the district court last night was obeyed promptly by the Des Moines City Railway Company and the Carmens' Union and while there is ample prospect of a fight later in the courts, one thing is certain, an injunction has restored, temporarily at least, nearly 500 conductors and motormen to their original positions.

The scenes attending the resumption of traffic rivaled those of Friday night when the men turned the cars in for what many of them thought would be their last time. The streets in the vicinity of the central waiting room at Sixth and Mulberry were thronged for nearly three hours before the time set the first car to pass. When extras announced that the first car had left the Twenty-fourth street barn, enthusiasm began to show itself, and when car No. 188 of the University line passed the station the crowd tendered the crew a rousing ovation.

It was not long before the first cars on every line had reached the station and each of the crews as they came up were greeted with cheers. By 6 o'clock traffic had almost reached its normal condition.

BEATTIE'S FACE IS NOT THAT OF A CRIMINAL

Printing a Picture Sunday Caused Some to Declare Something Was Wrong.

Richmond, Aug. 7.—Few people who studied the new pictures of Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., which were published in The Times-Dispatch yesterday, could believe that he is guilty of murdering his wife, as charged by the coroner's jury of Chesterfield county. The comment was general that he did not have the look of a man guilty of so brutal a crime. And nobody criticized him for allowing a newspaper to print his real photograph when it spoke so eloquently in his favor.

Perhaps his counsel realized it. Nobody has questioned the fact that public sentiment has long ago convicted the prisoner. This has spread so far and wide that there may be difficulty in securing a jury in Chesterfeld. It might be well to add in this connection that the public had reached its conclusions before the newspapers dared print the charge on a multitude of lips. But when a multitude of eyes gazed yesterday upon his pictures another multitude of lips voiced the sentiment that something must be wrong—that Henry Beattie could not have killed his wife on that Midlothian Turnpike. He hasn't the look of a criminal; he hasn't the look of an insane man. His eyes are sharp and clear and penetrating, and people said that his appearance was in his favor even if the evidence was all against him. There has been no word from Beattie or his lawyers since his arrest, more than two weeks ago. The silence from his cell has been both dignified and eloquent. Mr. Smith has said nothing while the Commonwealth's case was being rounded off in print. But the picture of Beattie—so unlike that boyish face seen hundreds of times in hundreds of newspapers heretofore—was accepted as the best word in his favor yet—if a picture may be called a word.

It is ridiculous, of course, to assume that a little thing like a photograph would upset a chain of circumstantial evidence well nigh complete, and no such inference is to be drawn from what is printed here. But the fact remains that Richmond people felt yesterday as if some terrible blunder had been made—somehow, somewhere.

Washington, Aug. 7.—The Senate passed today the joint House resolution No. 1 which was to provide for the correction of errors of enrollment in the appropriation bills passed during the rush hours of the last session of Congress.

Washington, Aug. 7.—H. J. C. Beckmeyer was a witness before the Senate Lorimer committee today. He told the committee of the distribution of the "jack-pot" fund among the members of the Illinois legislature and of his connection with the fund.
